AT THE MERCY OF THE GOLD KINGS.

The gold trust is conscious of the fact that another bond issue by the National Government before the Presidential election would bury McKinley so deep in November that he and the gold party would never be heard of again, except in history. To avoid this danger the trust, which a few months ago was taking gold out of the country at the rate of nearly a million dollars a day, is now shipping gold into the country at the rate of several million dollars a week.

What more is necessary to convince any intelligent person that the United States Treasury is at the mercy of the gold syndicate? This syndicate, composed of men who reckon their millions by hundreds, depletes or replenishes the gold in the United States Treasury at will. One month it makes a raid on the reserve fund so that another issue of bonds is discussed, and the next month, to influence the election, it brings millions of gold into the country.

The only remedy devised by a Republican Congress for this deplorable financial condition, was the issuance of more bonds, and a bill for that purpose was passed through the House under the gag rule, almost without debate. Fortunately the Senate refused to place the Government completely under the control of the gold syndicate and that body substituted a free coinage measure for the House bond bill. The House scornfully rejected the Senate substitute and that virtually made the issue of the present campaign, which is Shall the United States Government continue a financial system which necessitates the issuance of bonds whenever the gold trust desires, or restore silver to its time honored place as a money metal, revive the industries of the country, pay the obligations of the Government in coin, as nominated in the bond, and obviate the necessity of mortgaging the country every few months to the gold trust?

That issue was emphasized by the National conventions, the Republicans declaring for a continuation of the present financial system inaugurated under President Harrison's Administration, and continued under President Cleveland's Administration, and the Democrats, Populists and Silver party declaring against it, and for the coinage of gold and silver at the historic ratio of 16 to 1, independent of foreign nations.

This issue is squarely presented to the people, though efforts are being made to divert attention from it by asserting that a difference of 11 1/2 per cent in tariff schedules is the cause of the general depression, and it remains for the people to decide at the polls whether we shall have four years more of Clevelandism under the name of Hannaism, or whether we shall have Bryan and a Congress that shall exercise its Constitutional right to "coin money and regulate the value thereof," independent of the gold trust and foreign nations.

OFF TO THE WARS.

Congressman Newlands left for the East yesterday in response to a telegram from Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee. A meeting of silver chiefs will be held at St. Louis next Saturday at which Mr. Bryan and members of the National Silver party and Democratic Committees and representatives of Bryan Clubs from all over the country will be present. Mr. Newlands was especially requested to attend the meeting and if possible spend a week or ten days on the stump in the doubtful States. He left on the next train after he received the call and will be in the front ranks battling for the cause of the people in a few days.

The golden men have sent a corps of hirelings into the States of Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Ohio and the doubtful States generally. To meet them the Bryan men called for volunteers as they cannot, even if so disposed, hire speakers as they have no "barrels" at their disposal and they must rely exclusively on volunteers to repulse and vanquish the enemy.

The regular Democratic ticket of the State of New York has been revised by the State Central Committee. Judge Wilbur F. Porter of Watertown has been placed at the head for Governor. Judge Porter stands squarely on the Chicago platform, and John Boyd Thacher, who declined the nomination, has pledged his support to Bryan and the State ticket.

"I would rather have a foreign General at the head of our army or a foreign Admiral at the head of our navy than an American at the head of our Treasury who thought our finance ought to be on the English plan."—William J. Bryan.

TERRIFIC STORMS.

Great Damage in Several Places in the East.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., September 30.—A terrible rain and wind storm broke over this section this morning, lasting three hours. The wind moved at a velocity of sixty miles. All wires are down and railroad tracks washed out, preventing all traffic.

READING, Pa., September 30.—Early this morning the east house of the Temple Furnace was blown down by the wind and eleven workmen were covered in the ruins by falling timbers. Two were instantly killed and three others were fatally injured.

LANCASTER, Pa., September 30.—A storm has filled the streets with the roofs of buildings and debris swept by the wind. The Pennsylvania railroad bridge across the Susquehanna is destroyed, nothing being left but a part of the piers and the spans.

The bridge was a mile and a quarter long and is said to be the largest railroad bridge in the world. It cost one million dollars. Outside sections have suffered more damage than this city. Two men went down with the bridge. Factories along the river are all more or less damaged.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—A storm did great damage throughout the State, prostrating the wires in every direction. No trains are moving between Philadelphia and Baltimore. Out of one hundred wires only five are working to-day. South of Baltimore there is no wire working. In New Jersey the storm was also severe.

CHICAGO, Sept. 30.—Not since the big storm in 1893 has Lake Michigan been so rough as last night. The water damaged the piers and washed out the railway tracks. The rainfall was an inch and a half during the night. The Weather Bureau officials say that the storm is a West Indian gale, which has swept across the country. The storm is moving eastward over the St. Lawrence valley.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The wind, blowing 50 miles an hour, blew down small buildings. The water is high in the river.

The Wrecked Umatilla.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 30.—The developments so far to-day regarding the wrecked steamship Umatilla, are not important. Incoming steamer captains who passed the ship, say that the position is easy and the greater part of the vessel shows above water. They say that last night's reports were exaggerated and that they believe that the vessel will be patched up and floated away enough. Divers will attempt, during the day, to learn the extent of the damage to the hull.

Bryan in West Virginia.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 30.—The Bryan special train stopped first to-day at Washington Junction. The town was decorated with flags and bunting. A platform was erected on the side of a hill. Bryan here addressed 5,000 people, who gathered in the natural amphitheatre. He was loudly cheered.

Will Support Bryan.

NEW YORK, September 30.—W. H. Foster, the Democratic nominee for Governor, has sent a telegram of acceptance endorsing the Chicago platform and supporting Bryan and Sewall.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

California Republicans, who want a place at the public crib, are planning for an excursion to Canton.

The California Republican State Central Committee has abandoned the attempt to harmonize the discordant factions of the party in San Francisco.

In consequence of the operators' strike only passenger trains are running on the Canadian Pacific and perishable freight is not received at the stations.

The recent terrific storm on the west coast of Mexico played havoc with mining interests at Candelaria and San Dimas. The damage to mining property will exceed $250,000.

James J. Corbett has declared the match with Sharkey off as the California clubs have failed to deposit a purse for the fight. Corbett says he will now make a match with Fitzsimmons.

News has reached Milwaukee that a mysterious attempt was made at Iron Mountain, Michigan, to murder the Secretary of the McKinley Club. He was stabbed over the heart and was saved by a spectacle case.

Bryan accompanied by Senator Marion Butler, Chairman of the Populist National Committee and other prominent Populists and Democrats, rode through West Virginia yesterday. Bryan addressed a large crowd at Harper's Ferry.

The Board of Health of San Francisco adopted a resolution directing the attorney of the board to have an ordinance passed by the Board of Supervisors prohibiting spitting in public conveyances and on the public streets under penalty.

The Dubuque, Iowa, Conference of the Congregational Church by a decisive majority decided to receive Rev. C. O. Brown into full fellowship. It is predicted that the Bay Conference of San Francisco will take the case to the highest tribunal in the church.

A terrific storm swept along the Atlantic coast, unroofing houses and doing great damage at Baltimore, Philadelphia and other places. The wind struck Pittsburgh, Lancaster and other interior towns in Pennsylvania early yesterday morning, prostrating telegraph and telephone wires.

A vicious St. Bernard dog attacked several school children at Marysville, Missouri, and tore their clothing to shreds, and bit them on the head, breasts and legs. One of them, Laura Bauman, a 7-year-old girl, will probably die. It is not known whether the dog had hydrophobia or not.

All is quiet at Leadville, but the mine operators are preparing for the worst and are fortifying the mines preparatory to resuming work with non-union miners. It is reported that over three hundred miners have signed a paper declaring the policy of the union to be detrimental to their interests and they will be governed by it no longer.

The demonstration which greeted Bryan in New York this week was most remarkable. The streets were blocked and the crowds defied the energy of the police. Tammany Hall was jammed to the doors and the police wrestled with thousands who demanded admission, and when they could not get in went to various stands erected at vantage grounds within six blocks of Tammany.

A West India cyclone, scarcely equaled in intensity, swept over Savannah, Georgia. Bricks and wires fell everywhere and hundreds of tin roofs were rolled up like paper, while fallen trees and wires make the streets impassable. The strongest buildings were shaken and the damage to property is estimated at nearly a million dollars. Ten lives were reported lost and the number may be increased.

The punishment of the bagnos. In former times the punishment of the bagnos (bath), one of the most cruel and cruel inflictions ever devised by an official of the torture chamber, was administered in Italy, probably in Venice, where the water of the lagoons played a part in its penal system. The punishment was as follows:

The prisoner was placed in a vat the sides of which were slightly in excess of the average height of a man. In order to hold in check the rising tide of a supply of water which ran into the vat in a constant stream the criminal was furnished with a scowp with which to bail out the water as fast as it came in.

The respite from death by immersion thus obtained was more or less prolonged, according to the amount of endurance possessed by the victim. But imagine the moral torture, the exhausting and even hideously grotesque efforts, the incessant and pitiless toil by night and day, to stave off the dread moment, fast approaching, when, overcome by sleep and fatigue, he was unable to struggle any longer against his fate.

Monteur du Pay.

Taught the Teacher.

In the biography of Dr. Hawtrey, a famous English schoolmaster, there is a description of his unkempt appearance, with a comment which has been greatly quoted. It is said that he was scolding for being late at morning lesson some boy, who replied that he had no time to dress. "But I can dress in time," said the doctor. "Yes," replied the boy, "but I wash."

Tom Fitch, the silver-tongued, who was always on the side of the heaviest sack, is now in Mr. Hanna's pay with Bourke Cochran and others whose principles are for sale.

NEW TO-DAY.

The Silver State has sent another remittance of $100 to W. P. St. John, treasurer of the National Silver party committee, making $500 to date. Humboldt and Nye counties are the only ones in Nevada that have, so far, contributed to the Silver campaign fund. Washoe, the wealthiest county in the State, ought to send a few hundred dollars to Treasurer St. John to assist in offsetting Mr. Hanna's millions.

From an Address Delivered by Professor Robert Lewers at the University.

The following is a synopsis of Professor Robert Lewers' lecture before the General Assembly yesterday:

Probably the Jesuit Gares, was the first European to set foot in Nevada, for he was in Northern Arizona on the Colorado river in January, 1776. At any rate he interviewed the Yavapai Indians, who lived north of the Colorado, and obtained many interesting items about the three large rivers that flowed from the Rocky Mountains directly west into the Pacific Ocean.

This false information was a source of trouble to Fremont and other later explorers.

In 1825 Jedediah S. Smith, a New Yorker, and a member of the Rocky Mountain Fur Company, entered Nevada from the direction of the Yellowstone country, discovered the Humboldt river, and named it Mary's river. He came down the Humboldt, crossed the Carson river and followed the West Walker to its source, crossed the Sierras and stopped in Tulare. On his return he is said to have discovered gold near Mono Lake in 1825.

Peter S. Ogden came down from Idaho and trapped for beaver on Mary's river in 1831. Many of the trappers knew the river as Ogden river. In 1833 B. L. E. Bonnevillie, a United States army officer, in charge of a private exploring party, sent Joseph Walker, a famous Rocky Mountain trapper, with forty men to explore the Ogden river. Walker descended the Ogden river, passed south toward the sink of the Carson, and ascended the West Walker, following Smith's route over the Sierras. Kit Carson was on the Ogden river in 1833 with Hudson Bay Company trappers.

In 1841 the first immigrant party crossed Nevada. This party is generally known as the Bardeson party, although John Bidwell of Ohio, the famous California pioneer, was the best known member of it. They were the first people to bring wagons into Nevada, but were compelled to abandon them on the Great American Desert. Bidwell's party followed the Humboldt-Walker route, and as John Bidwell afterwards regretfully said, "they missed the beautiful Truckee Meadows, which lay a short distance north of our road."

In January, 1844, Fremont, "The Pathfinder," came down from the Colorado river, entering Nevada somewhere north of Honey Lake. Fremont discovered Pyramid Lake and gave it that name because of the remarkable resemblance of one of its islands to the Pyramid of Cheops. He named the river the Salmon Trout river. Fremont left the river at the present site of Wadsworth and crossing the Carson followed the East Walker until he was compelled to turn and try the West branch. After a hard-fought battle with the January snows in the Sierras, he reached California, but was compelled to abandon his mountain howitzer in a canyon that was afterwards known as Lost Gun Canyon. This gun was found by William Wright (Dan de Quille), and is now at Glenbrook, Nevada.

In 1845 Fremont crossed Nevada south of the usual route along the Ogden river, and under the guidance of Kit Carson explored the Carson river and valley. He named the Humboldt river after Alexander Von Humboldt, the great German geologist; the Walker after Joseph Walker, the famous trapper and guide; the Carson river and valley after Christopher Carson, the noted Indian fighter and guide, and gave Owen's Valley its name in honor of another of his men. Fremont discovered Lake Tahoe and named it Lake Bonpland in honor of Amade Bonpland, the famous botanist that accompanied Humboldt in his travels. The Truckee river was named after Truckee, the Indian guide who conducted the Murphy party of immigrants up the Truckee and over the mountains in 1844. The members of the Murphy party were the first white people to visit the Truckee Meadows.

The Cooper party followed the Truckee route to California in 1846, and late in the same year the unfortunate Donner party tarried four days near the present site of Reno. This delay was fatal, for Sierra storms wait for no one. The subsequent history of the party is too well known to Nevadans to require rehearsal.

Many immigrant teams passed through Nevada before a permanent settlement was made by the Mormons at Genoa.

The Ideal Panacea.

Rev. ## ORMSBY DISTRICT FAIR.

Third Day—Largest and Liveliest Attendance Yet—Fine Horse and Bicycle Racing—Pool Jockeying Heated Incidents.

CARSON CITY, September 30, 1896. The largest and liveliest attendance was that of to-day, quite a number from Reno and the Comstock being welcomed by the brass band on the arrival of the trains. Corresponding interest was manifested in the pools at the races and numerous goodly amounts of coins changed hands on the various results.

The unfinished trot and pace was finished the first thing, Princess winning the third heat and race in 2:39½. Running three-eighths mile dash, two-year-olds, won by Tornado in 39 seconds, Trickett close behind.

Half-mile dash, Nevada colts, four-year-old and under, won by Keepsake in 52 seconds, Mafada a very close companion; five entries. "Pizen," the rider of Keepsake, and Cody, rider of Mafada, were fined $10 each for foul jockeying in the starting. Everybody warned accordingly.

Special running race, mile dash, won by Eureka, Fannie second, Vanity third and Hilton fourth. Time, 1:45. A very good and satisfactory race.

Between all this horse racing and following came the bicycle racing, a very interesting feature of the day. Ed. Stanley of Virginia was about the only participant outside of Carson.

Artie Marsh won the first race, quarter mile dash for boys, in 39 seconds.

Louis Springmeyer won the one mile dash, free for all in 2:50.

Roy Richards won the next mile dash in 2:35.

Rube Kelley won the half-mile race in 1:11. Ed Stanley of Virginia, second.

The mile district championship race, between Springmeyer, Kelly and Mulcaby, was won by Springmeyer in 2:55.

Visitors generally took an interested look at the cattle and horse display—exceeding meritorious for the extent and variety of it, and not to be excelled on the Pacific coast or anywhere else. This fair is passing off finely and fully up to the standard, everybody from the outside or inside acknowledging and appreciating the excellent management and fair and honest treatment in all departments.

The best all around and all over jockey in America is prominently utilized in these races. He is all legs and shoulders, hanging across the saddle like a turtle, when the wind blows and it pitched off the horse headlong would only alight on his shoulders, head undisturbed.

How the Farmers Stand.

James B. Welshon, chief miller at the Riverside Mills, desiring to ascertain the political preferences of the farmers who take wheat to and purchase flour at the Mills prepared a ballot box, sealed it up and asked every customer to put a ballot in the box with the name of his choice for President written thereon. A tally was kept of the number of votes polled and yesterday the box was opened and the votes polled with the following result: Total number of votes cast 55, of which Bryan received 47 and McKinley 8. This indicates how the farmers stand. The ballot was secret and everybody voted as he pleased.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morrison of Worthington, Ind., writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for constipation and sick headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs. Annie Steble, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1. Get a bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

The University Gymnasium.

It is proposed to equip the University gymnasium with the latest improved apparatus. It will cost about $500 to do this properly and it is hoped that the public spirited citizens will give their aid in raising this amount. In this connection Dr. Stubbs has the pleasure of announcing that the following gentlemen have already contributed nearly one-half of the amount required: Colonel J. B. Overton, $100; J. N. Evans, Esq., $100; R. L. Fulton and James Henry each $20 in apportion.

Bryan Club.

The Bryan Club will hold its regular meeting in Clough & Crosby's Hall, this (Thursday) evening. The meeting will be addressed by T. V. J. J. J. C. D. Van Duzer, F. H. Norcoros and others on the issues involved in the campaign. The club has a membership of several hundred, and the cause which it advocates is just.

Thomas Burns of Paradise Valley took a shot at W. F. Twist last Sunday, the charge riddling Twist's hat and scratching his scalp. The Silver State says Burns was arrested.

The funeral of the late John G. Ducker will take place from the residence of Mrs. Kornusir, Third and West streets, this (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

According to Ullman & Rankin's quotations on the Presidential result the betting in New York is 3 to 1 that Bryan will carry Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Carolina, North Dakota, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas and Washington. Bets are even on California, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. The odds vary from 10 to 7 that McKinley will carry Connecticut to 4 to 1 that Bryan will carry Colorado. The quotations are subject to change at any time.

The Unitarian or Liberal Congregation.

The Unitarian or Liberal Congregation will begin the year's work on Sunday, October 4. For the month, services will be held both morning and evening at Clough and Crosby's Hall. If, at the close of the month the number attending services warrant it, such services will be continued; if not, we shall meet but once a day.

We ask the cooperation of all Reno Liberals. Without proper food the physical body does not grow, and it is as evident that one can not grow in spirituality or toward divineness of character without spiritual nourishment. We meet to provide this food, through the sermons of Mr. J. Savage, who occupies the pulpit in New York City, left vacant by the death of Robert Colyer. The first sermon will be selected with the idea of explaining our Movement and Mission.

Mrs. B. E. Hunter is the busy woman who has in less than four years, here in Reno, sold Thirteen Thousand Seven Hundred dollars worth of Viava remedies. The reason so much has been sold is simply because they are the greatest remedies in the world and will not fail to cure if used as recommended. Gentlemen who have stomach troubles, come and get some of our tablets; you will never regret it. Any person who is ill, come and see if we have not a remedy that will cure you.

Celebration to Take Place Next July in Recognition of the Date on Which Vasco da Gama Left the Tagus on His World Renowned Voyage of Discovery.

The programme announced by Portugal for the four hundredth anniversary of Vasco da Gama's departure from the Tagus for the discovery of India is worthy of the event to be celebrated. And, considering the prolonged and widespread honors which were paid four years ago to the great exploit of Columbus, it would be strange indeed if the illustrious service rendered by the Portuguese navigator to his country and to mankind should fail of proper commemoration.

It was on the 8th of July, 1497, that his little fleet of four vessels, specially built for his errand, sailed down the Tagus under a commission from King Manuel to explore the eastern coast of Africa and to open a trade route to India. As in the case of Columbus, prayers and confessions were the preliminaries of the voyage, made in a small chapel, where a memorial church now stands, and the parallel to the experience of the Genoese navigator was carried out by the appeals of some of his men, while on the voyage, to give it up and return. But the story of that voyage, with his rounding of the cape of Good Hope, as King Manuel had named Stormy cape; his discovery of Mozambique and Mombassa, his reaching Melinda and finally, in May, 1498, his arrival at Calcutta, on the Malabar coast, and there setting up a stone pillar in token of his labors, need not be rehearsed.

Enough to say that when, near the end of August, 1499, he arrived home, honors were heaped upon him and public festivals held. His work had not been accomplished without severe trials, winding up with his escape from detention by the ruler of Calicut, instigated by the Arabs there, but this fact only increased the king's appreciation of his service. He was also the indirect cause of another great service to Portugal, since another expedition, starting immediately for Calicut, bore off too much west and so discovered Brazil, thereafter keeping on to the Malabar coast. Unhappily, Vasco da Gama was to stain his fame in history, for the ruler of Calicut having murdered the men whom Gama left there, Gama in 1502 went out with an expedition expressly to take vengeance, which he did with most atrocious cruelty.

But his great voyage that opened the route around the cape of Good Hope is worthy of the national jubilee with which Portugal will honor it. The three days beginning with July 8, 1897, will be marked by religious, social, political and military ceremonies, with memorials, maps, and historical addresses. There will be religious conferences, exhibitions of Portugal's contributions to the art of navigation and a great plenary sphere to illustrate her discoveries. There will be fairs, processions, illuminations and public sports, these last including a regatta and a rifle contest open to all nations, and of course a bicycle competition.

All nations, too, are invited to send ships to represent them and to aid in honoring the event. This is an invitation that ought to be accepted, for while Portugal found wealth and fame in Vasco da Gama's great achievement, other nations too profited by it, and consequently of vast import to mankind followed his pioneering of the sea route to the east. Our squadron on the European station will unquestionably be ordered to take part in the celebration. — New York Sun

PROFANE SOLDIERS.
THERE WAS VERY LITTLE SWEARING
IN THE ARMY OF THE UNION.
An Old Soldier Takes Issue With the Author of "The Red Badge of Courage"—Camp Followers and Hangers On Furnished the Profanity of the War.
When the recruits of the First Maine cavalry began to take on "soldier airs" in their camp on the Peninsula, in 1861, some of them assuming that troopers should be men "full of strange oaths," Colonel Doughty promulgated an antiprofanity order. At first the edict was received with considerable merriment, and, expletives, innocent in themselves though meant to do duty as oaths, were freely used. But in a few days, inspired by the precepts and examples of certain self-respecting comrades, the men took a nobler view of it and the "needless vice," as the historian of the regiment characterizes it, was effectually proscribed.
The First Maine served four years and earned a reputation for valor in the field second to no other mounted command. It brought home a flag upon which were inscribed by official authority the names of 36 battles. But the veterans were not more proud of their military honors than of their good morals, for they had won the honors and the victory to crown them, swearing
"not at all," that, too, with a regimental temperance pledge held in almost universal respect.
The general over a division of 10,000 men who nipped the profanity evil in the bud by saying, "I will do the swearing for this entire command," was more tactful in his methods than the Maine cavalry colonel, as he needed to be dealing with strange troops, but he was not a poster, neither a victim of overconfidence in himself. If military necessity warranted violation of the law he would be the judge. Under a leader so chivalrous and far-sighted the crisis would never arise. Only once during a long service at the front—service rendered in two different regiments, different brigades, divisions and army corps—did I hear an officer above the rank of captain give way to profanity. That once was the case of a brigade commander during the course of duty upon a ras-cally quartermaster. The quartermaster raged on the spot and went home, thus removing what might have been a subliming block from the path of many of the general.
I should say that the rascally quartermaster and his close companions, a civilian army mule and the obnoxious teamster, furnished the chief motives to swearing for soldiers of the line. In the present setting to the use of profanity outside of the army of many discipline—oaths were as common as they are in the army of the "Red Badge of Courage."
But, the manner as well as the language of the soldiers in that narrative suggests that the studies for it were made from camp followers and the hangers on of the supply departments, manned, as these were, by noncombatants. Into that safe asylum drifts, according to a well known law, the slum element of an army in the field.
My ears still retain echoes of volleys of oaths from the lips of two men of that class whom I encountered on the peninsula in 1862. Both were enlisted soldiers and wore the blue. One of the offenders acted as keeper of the brigade commissary stores. With him the swearing habit was an infirmity, causing his associates to overlook it through pity.
The other was a teamster, who had followed the sea until long past middle life. Swearing in his case was a childish way of showing bravado. It was needless to add that he was a hopeless coward, and for that reason had been detailed to stable duty.
By referring to the roster of the company in which I served in 1862 I now recall the individuality of 83 comrades, and of that number recognize 65 who did not use profane language on any occasion. Of the remaining 28 only 11 can be indicated as possibly given to profanity at times, and that solely on the ground of their general reputation for lightness of morals. On the expiration of one term of enlistment, in 1863, two sergeants of the company recruited a company for the veteran cavalry service.
They had the pick of 500 applicants recently mustered out from the two years' regiments and chose their men strictly with regard to their previous records as gallant soldiers. When the men came together in camp, it appeared that there was not one among the 100 veterans so selected who used profane or vulgar language.
A moment's reflection must convince every intelligent person that violent language is subversive of all true discipline, and a successful army without discipline is an impossibility in this age. The article of war proscribing profanity, promulgated, as it was, to secure command and read on parade annually at least, was a protection for the soldier and a moral weapon for the officer. The soldier could insist upon its observance by his superiors. On the other hand, he weakened his own cause whenever he violated the law himself.
At first blush the article seemed to many obsolete and ridiculous and was generally received as a relic of Puritan days. But the more serious and exacting rule the more it is studied and analyzed. Men of fixed habits obeyed readily, setting a good example. In the end wilder spirits found that obedience was easier than resistance. Thus at the very outset the law of God was impressed upon the understanding of all who hadn't it written in their hearts—

THREE-YEAR-OLD ELOPERS.
The youngest eloping couple on record spent several hours at the Allegheny police station the other day and were returned to their parents. The would be groom was Charles M. Douglas, aged 8 years, and his prospective bride was Margaret Carpenter, aged 8 years and 6 months.
Both are blue eyed, flaxen haired tots and appeared very much in love with each other. They were indignant when prevented from going to a minister's to have the knot tied. Miss Carpenter had her arm linked in that of her lover, and they were walking hurriedly along North Avenue, Allegheny, heading for a minister's house, when a lady met them and asked where they were going.
"Margaret and me's don't do to married," spoke up Charles, and Margaret hung her head and blushed and said it was true.
The lady gave the youthful elopers in charge of an officer, who learned their names, but they did not know on what street they lived. At the police station they were handed over to the matron.
Charles also told the matron he intended to marry Margaret. He was a most affectionate lover, placing his arm about the little lady's waist and was not a bit plesed when she made him remove the arm. Charles admitted he was rather young to wed. When asked what he wanted for a wedding outfit, he said:
"A wagon with 15 wheels, in which to haul Margaret and her doll." Margaret said she preferred a laughing and crying doll and a parasol for a trousseau.
Charles was asked by Matron Kellogg
if he really and truly loved Margaret.
He promptly said, "Yes." In answer to a like question Margaret said, "No."
"Say 'Yes,'" Charles put in coaxingly, and she did.
"Do you ever kiss Margaret?" Mrs.
Kellogg asked.
"No, he don't," Margaret put in. "I don't let him."
"I do when it gets dark," Charles
said.
"Will you kiss her now if I give you a cent?" was asked Charles said he would and gave the lassie a hearty smack as if he was used to it. After some coaxing Margaret kissed Charles, and then both wanted to go and spend their penny for candy.
The arrival of the parents interrupted the course of true love. As Charles was trotted off by his mamma he declared he would yet wed Margaret—

A NEW SCHEME
The Latest Manner in Which Chinese Are Brought to America.
The migration of Chinese from Canada to the United States goes steadily on.
The false certificate scheme, which was abandoned for some time, has suddenly been revived, and the line of operations has been removed to Montreal.
These certificates, which are forged and sold at from $25 to $100. A new trick has been devised. A letter of credit to circumvent. The scheme is sent in batches of 20 or 30 to hold in the United States and allow them selves to be trusted. The young Chin-men and their families are then sent to the United States, and when they find comes of the Chinese agent in the States promptly furnishes a "ticket" for each—that is to say a man who swears that he is the young man's father.
In consequence of the promptness of the lawyers and the agent, young Chin-men are often arrested in the morning and liberated at night.
This scheme is proving a gold mine to the lawyers, who get from $50 to $75 as a fee for each Chinaman. They frequently go to Montreal to consult with the Chinese merchants who retain them.
Lugene's First Acquaintance
It is not generally known that Lugene was partly an Irishman.
Yet upon one side she was the daughter of an Irish soldier of fortune. There were any amount of them—those who name and place for himself in the terminable Spanish wars. When the talk of her marrying the Emperor Napoleon, some of the old nobility smiled at her pedigree. Then came heralds tracing out Irish blood lines until the French authorities in disgust conceded that Eugene was descended from all the royalties of Ireland back to Brian Boru.
Chose the Less.
Mr. Wickwire—But, my dear, if you discharge the girl without notice she may make it cost me $10 or $15. You know there is an agreement about notice.
Mrs. Wickwire—Yes, and if I give her a week's notice she will manage to break $80 or $40 worth of china before she goes.—Indianapolis Journal

Know Their Place.
An Irish judge tells the following story of one of the juries in the south of Ireland, where he was trying a case:
The usher of the court proclaimed with due solemnity the usual formula, "Gen-places in the court!" whereupon seven of them instinctively walked into the dock.—Boston Green Bag.

of which will more fully appear from the
